

Annotation

Discipline "Doing engineering activities" is included in the program for students enrolled in the direction 13.03.01 "Thermal Engineering and Heat Engineering". This discipline is taught during one semester. It sets out the reasons and conditions of occurrence and development of engineering knowledge in society.

The aims and objectives of today's engineers. The features of engineering activities in the field of power engineering and heat engineering. Variants of individual homework. Methodical instructions for study of discipline and the implementation of individual homework.